School of Veterinary Medicine Teaching Awards

School of Veterinary Medicine Teaching Awards

The Veterinary School's teaching awards were presented during the annual Student Government Dinner Dance on April 26. This year, Philadelphia's 30th Street Station provided the backdrop for an evening attended by 250 students, faculty, and staff.

Dr. Sophy Jesty

Leadership in Clinical Science was presented to Dr. Billy Smith, assistant professor of medicine in New Bolton Center Field Service. Dr. Smith also received the Carl J. Norden Distinguished Teacher Award.

The two Dean's Awards honor one faculty member from the clinical departments and one from the basic science departments who have made outstanding contributions to teaching their disciplines. The Norden Award was established in 1963 "to recognize outstanding teachers who, through their ability, dedication, character, and leadership, contribute significantly to the advancement of the profession."

The four classes honored the faculty members they considered to be outstanding teachers. The Class of 2003 presented awards to Dr. Corinne Sweeney, professor of medicine, and Dr. Kenneth Drobotz, associate professor of critical care medicine. The Class of 2004 honored Raymond Sweeney, V'82, associate professor of medicine. Dr. James Lok, associate professor of parasitology, received
