DR. MARK HASKINS

Mark Haskins, VMD, MS, PhD, professor of pathology at Penn Vet, was awarded the first-ever Dean’s Award for Distinguished Service in recognition of his longstanding dedication to the School and his role in educating students, mentoring faculty and advising administrators.

When presenting the award to Dr. Haskins, Dean Joan C. Hendricks said, “[Dr. Haskins’] generous and principled dedication to the profession and to the School are unparalleled. You never hesitate to share your experience, your wise counsel, and your strong advocacy when you identify a way you can have a positive impact. You are passionate and at the same time scientifically rigorous in your assessment of all sides of a question or issue. Through the years, legions of students have participated in your hands-on care for the dogs and cats with inherited diseases who form the basis for your research program. They have seen for themselves what an impact a caring, compassionate veterinarian can have on the lives of animals — both those who are in the research program and those who benefit from the research.

“While an award cannot be sufficient, it is a pleasure to have the opportunity to express my personal gratitude to you for lending the full force of your personality to improving your School.”

Mr. Barry Haines, director of facilities at New Bolton Center for 33 years, retired this summer after 33 years of dedicated service to Penn Vet.

Dr. Ronald N. Harty, associate professor of microbiology, was invited to serve as lead guest editor of a special issue of the journal Advances in Virology on the topic of virus budding/host interactions.

In July, Dr. Christopher A. Hunter, chairman of the Department of Pathobiology at Penn Vet, along with Dr. Terri M. Laufer, associate professor of medicine at the Perelman School of Medicine, in conjunction with The American Associate of Immunologists, offered an Introductory Course in Immunology.

Dr. Candace Jacobson, who recently completed her residency in large animal reproduction, successfully passed the certifying examination of the American College of Theriogenologists (ACT) and is now a Diplomate of the ACT.

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

ALUMNI AWARDS of MERIT

Penn Vet is seeking nominations for the 2011 Alumni Award of Merit and other awards for distinguished Penn Vet alumni. Alumni include matriculating graduates, as well as interns, residents and post-doctoral fellows.

To be presented at the Penn Annual Conference in March 2012, these awards are given to alumni that have made outstanding contributions to their profession and to the School. Awards are given annually to recognize distinguished graduates for their contributions that advance knowledge in biomedicine, promote the welfare of animals through public education of animal owners and benefit society through civic activities that foster the advancement of the profession and the School's good name.

Please forward your nominations to Jillian Marcussen, director of stewardship and special projects, at 215.898.4235 or jillian2@vet.upenn.edu with a statement of support for each candidate.
