Jie Lin was born in Shangrao, P. R. China, in 1976. He received the undergraduate degree in physics from Fundan University, Shanghai, P. R. China, the M.S. degree in physics from Creighton University, Omaha, NE, and the M.S. degree in electrical engineering from Yale University, New Haven, CT, in 1997, 1999, and 2002, respectively. He is currently working toward the Ph.D. degree at Yale University.

His research interests are in the areas of analysis and synthesis of multiagent coordination control, as well as the application to mobile sensor networks and robotics.
