

RESEARCH IN PROGRESS:

Alison Brown, (Linacre College, Oxford) is conducting doctoral research on the history of museum ethnographic collecting expeditions in the early 20th century, focussing on expeditions among Plains Indians in the United States, particularly the work of Donald Cadzow, who collected for the Museum of the American Indian and the Cambridge University Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology.

Michael Chege (Center for African Studies, University of Florida) is researching "A Pioneer View of the Rockefeller Foundation's Contribution to African Studies in Two Parts: The Founding of the International African Institute in London and the Training of Economic Managers after Independence."

Richard Delisle (University of Witwatersrand) is conducting doctoral research on "Human Phylogeny and Evolutionary Biology During the Second Half of the Twentieth Century"

Benoit de L'Estoile (Ecole normal supérieure) is pursuing research on the relationship between anthropological knowledge and colonial power in the framework of a French-British comparison.

Rebecca Lemov (University of California, Berkeley) is doing research for a dissertation tentatively entitled "White Shoe to White Collar: Bureaucratic Anthropology and the Birth of the Information Age, 1930-1955."

Brenda Plummer (Department of History, University of Wisconsin) is conducting research on "African Studies in American Perspective: A History of Separate Development."

Sara Pugach (History, University of Chicago) is conducting research for a dissertation tentatively entitled "Afrikanistik: Sprachwissenschaft in the Development of German Images of Africa, 1884-1930."

Ricardo A. Roque (Insitute of Historical Research, Universidade Nova de Lisboa) is preparing a dissertation on Portuguese "colonial anthropology" in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, focussing on the work of Fonseca Cardoso, a military officer who did anthropometric and ethnographic work in India, Timor, and Angola, and on the anthropological laboratories set up in this period in Lisboa, Coimbra, and Porto.

BIBLIOGRAPHICA ARCANA

I. Recent Work by Subscribers

[Except in the case of new subscribers, for whom we will include one or two orienting items, "recent" is taken to mean within the last two years. Please note that we do not list "forthcoming" items. To be certain of dates and page numbers, please wait until your works have actually appeared before sending offprints (preferably) or citations in the style used in History of Anthropology and most anthropological journals]
